

WWII Pilot Training Adventure Experience

During WWII Canadian skies were filled with aircraft piloted by young men from around the world. They were earning their wings in basic trainers before moving on to front line aircraft such as Mustangs, Hurricanes and Spitfires. They were part of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan [BCATP] and their courage and exploits are now a legendary part of the aviation history of WWII.

Now You Can Follow in their Footsteps !

Air Safaris International, through an exclusive arrangement with Vintage Wings of Canada, offers you the opportunity to fly in those same basic trainers in a program modelled on the BCATP. At each of 3 stages you will have a ground school session and a 40-minute flight with a check pilot. And at the end of the week you will graduate and be recognized at a wings dinner.

But there is more! Upon completion of the initial training, participants will have the option of moving up to "advanced" training in such iconic aircraft as the Curtiss P40 Kittyhawk, the P-51D Mustang or the Fairey Swordfish, of the Battle of the Bismarck fame.

This unique program has limited enrolment so reserve your spot early!
